

Dr. Lori Blauwet, FACC, FAHA, FASE, is the Co-Director of the Cardio-Ob Clinic, Co-Coordinator of Fellow Education in the Echocardiography Laboratory and consultant in the Women's Heart and Valve Clinics at Mayo Clinic Rochester. She completed medical school, internal medicine residency and cardiology fellowship at Mayo Clinic, Rochester. Her current research interests include peripartum cardiomyopathy, myocarditis, and management of patients with prosthetic valves. She is Associate Professor Medicine at Mayo Clinic and current Chair of the American Heart Association's Women in Cardiology Committee. She is also founder and current president of the Peripartum Cardiomyopathy Association, a non-profit organization dedicated to promoting PPCM awareness, education, and research while also offering support to PPCM patients, their families, and friends.